2 things made a difference

1. Devon Air Ambulance & the NHS

I am making a great recovery. However, my mental health has suffered and finding help isn't as straightforward as you would think.

2. WRAAP - Exeter Colleges Personal Development programme enabled me to find the support I needed.

- Know the importance of mindfulness and the activities I was able to take to calm my mind.
- Have an insight into Talkworks and the importance of talking therapies.
- Access links to a range of websites that offer mental health support.

Personal Development Mapping & Monitoring Tool (EIF 2024)
EIF	Evaluation	Grade Descriptors	Key questions to ask yourself	What evidence can you use
Quality of education	the provider's curriculum, which embeds the decisions the provider has made about the knowledge, skills and behaviours its learners need to equip to fulfil their aspirations for learning, employment and independence	The curriculum extends beyond the vocational/technical/occupational and provides for learners' broader development, enabling them to develop and discover their interests and talents.	How does your curriculum planning extend beyond the mandatory requirements of the Apprenticeship standard? How do you meet the needs of all apprentices (level, stage and sector)?
Benchmark 6 Attitudes	The setting of clear expectations for behaviour across all aspects of provider life, including at work.	The curriculum and the provider's wider work support learners to develop their character - including their resilience, confidence and independence - and, where relevant, help them learn how to keep physically and mentally healthy.	How does your training environment support the ethos of Confident Personal Development? How does your curriculum planning and resourcing contribute to learners' spiritual, moral and cultural development? How are you promoting physical and mental well-being which enables individuals to thrive?
Quality of education	How leaders ensure that the curriculum supports learners' progression and provides knowledge and/or skills for the future (including non-qualification activity, where relevant)	The provider prepares learners for future success in education, employment or training by providing relevant information to all about potential next steps, high quality, up-to-date, and locally relevant career guidance, and opportunities for encounter with the world of work.	How are you using the GATSBY / Bechmarks to meet the standard expected? 1. A viable career programme 2. Learning from career and labour market information 3. Addressing the needs of each pupil 4. Linking curriculum learning to careers 5. Encounters with employers and employees 6. Exposure to workplaces 7. Encounters with further and higher education 8. Personal guidance
Benchmark 6 Attitudes	This judgement considers how leaders and staff create a safe, disciplined and positive environment within the provider and the impact this has on the behaviour and attitudes of learners. A positive and respectful provider culture in which staff know and care about learners.	The provider prepares learners for life in modern Britain by teaching them how to protect themselves from radicalisation and extremist views, helping to equip them to be responsible, respectful, active citizens who contribute positively to society, developing their understanding of fundamental British values; developing their understanding and appreciation of diversity, celebrating what we have in common, and promoting respect for the different protected characteristics or defined in law.	How does your curriculum planning and resourcing contribute to learners' moral, social and cultural development?
Leadership & Management	Leaders' high expectations of all learners and the extent to which these are embedded in day-to-day interactions with and support for learners	The provider consistently and creatively promotes the personal development of learners. The provider goes beyond the expected, so that learners have access to a wide, rich set of experiences that track their why it is important to contribute actively to society. Opportunities for learners to develop their talents and interests as of occupational quality.	What do you do that is unique, different, innovative, exceptional? How do you make sure that your personal development curriculum is taught consistently across all programmes?
Leadership & Management	The extent to which leaders focus their attention on the education and training they provide, leading to better outcomes for learners and continual and sustainable improvement	The provider ensures that participation in these activities is very high, particularly among those from disadvantaged backgrounds, and all benefit from their opportunities and experiences.	How do you monitor participation? How are you making sure that resources and information is accessible throughout their apprenticeship journey and beyond?
What inspectors look for in this area
Personal Development
The curriculum should support learners to develop their knowledge and skills beyond the purely academic, technical or vocational. This judgement considers the provider's intent to provide for the personal development of learners, and the quality of the way in which it does this. As the provider is working with learners, these learners are also being influenced by other factors in their home environment, their community and elsewhere. Providers can track and even learners how to build their confidence and resilience, for example, but they cannot determine how well young people and adult learners drive on this. Similarly, providers cannot make their learners active, engaged citizens, but they can help them understand how to engage with society and provide them with plentiful opportunities to do so. Providers can take effective action to prepare learners for many aspects of life, but the impact of this work may not be seen well many years later. In this judgement, therefore, inspectors will seek to evaluate the quality and extent of what a provider offers and will look to see what learners have but will not attempt to measure the impact of the provider's work on the lives of individual learners. Where the usual opportunities have been disrupted by the pandemic, the provider has found alternative approaches to providing a rich range of personal development opportunities. When forming judgements about personal development, inspectors will seek to understand what took place before the pandemic, what the provider has in place currently and what its future plans are. Inspectors recognise that many elements of personal development that were in place before the pandemic may have been disrupted. Therefore, they will focus on understanding the steps that leaders have taken to offer or to restore a wide range of personal development opportunities. The judgement focuses on the most significant dimensions of the personal development of learners that our education system has agreed, either by consensus or statute, are the most significant: - developing responsible, respectful and active citizens who are able to play their part and know how to become involved in public life - developing and engaging learners' understanding of the fundamental British values of democracy, individual liberty, the rule of law and mutual respect and tolerance - promoting equality of opportunity so that all learners can thrive together, understanding that difference is a positive, not a negative, and that individual characteristics make people unique - promoting an inclusive curriculum that meets the needs of all learners, irrespective of age, disability, gender recognition, race, religion or belief, sex or sexual orientation, relationship status or pregnancy - developing learners' character, which we define as the set of positive personal traits, dispositions and virtues that inform their motivation and guide their conduct so that they reflect widely, learn - eagerly, behave with integrity and cooperate constructively with others. This gives learners the qualities they need to flourish in our society - developing learners' confidence, resilience and knowledge so that they can keep themselves mentally healthy - developing learners' understanding of how to keep physically healthy and maintain an active lifestyle - developing an age-appropriate understanding of healthy relationships through appropriate relationship and sex education (learners 16+) - providing an effective career programme that offers advice, experience and contact with employers to encourage learners to aspire, make good choices and understand what they need to do in order to reach said success in their chosen career - supporting readiness for the next phase of education, training or employment so that learners can make the transition to the next stage successfully These aspects of personal development will be considered in an age-appropriate way within the context of the provider and its learners.
